HRÉTIEN INTERNATIONAL RESEARCH GRANTS

American Astronomical Society

Description:

The American Astronomical Society invites applications for the Chrétien international research grants. These grants are intended to further international collaborative projects in observational astronomy. The emphasis is on long-term international visits and the development of close working relationships with astronomers in other countries. Preference will be given to individuals of high promise who are otherwise unfunded. Innovative technical approaches including the development and use of new optics, new devices and new techniques will count heavily in the applicant's favour.

Astronomers with a PhD or equivalent may apply; graduate students are not eligible. Up to US$20,000 will be awarded to one or more individuals or groups to be used for the support of international observational astronomy. The awards are open to astronomers throughout the world.

OHN F PERKINS JR MEMORIAL AWARD FOR INTERNATIONAL PHYSIOLOGISTS

American Physiological Society

Description:

The American Physiological Society invites applications for the John F Perkins Jr memorial award for international physiologists. The award promotes cultural exchange and scientific collaborations by providing supplementary aid to families of foreign scientists working for a minimum of three months in the US. In this way, young scientists are able to bring their families and thus make full use of the cultural exchange as well as the scientific benefits associated with an international collaboration. The award will support family visits to the US for postdoctoral fellows and junior faculty from overseas.

The programme presupposes that the visiting scientist and their host already have made arrangements for scientific collaboration and have sufficient funds to cover the needs of the visiting scientist. The application must be made jointly by the host and the visiting scientist. The host must be an APS member.

The recipient receives funds generally not exceeding US$5,000.

NVIRONMENTAL POLITICS INSTITUTE: CLIMATE CHANGE AND ENVIRONMENTAL GOVERNANCE IN AFRICA

Council for the Development of Social Science Research (CODESRIA)

Description:

The Council for the Development of Social Science Research invites applications for participation in its environmental politics institute on climate change and environmental governance in Africa. The institute, to be held in Dakar, Senegal from 6 to 18 August 2012, will bring together African scholars undertaking innovative research on topics related to the broad theme of environmental politics to promote and sustain the development of coherent social sciences engagement with environmental issues in Africa. The main objectives are to:

- build the capacity of young African scholars in social science research into environmental politics issues;
- catalyse the development of a core epistemic community of social scientists engaged with environmental issues;
- encourage the sharing of experiences among researchers, activists and

- policymakers from different disciplines, orientations and geographical and linguistic zones;
- promote and enhance a critical interdisciplinary engagement in a manner that allows Africans to effectively identify and tackle the environmental issues of the continent;
- foster the participation of scholars in discussions and debates about the environment taking place in Africa, especially in the context of the global climate change discourse.

Participants will be required to prepare a research paper to be presented during the course of the institute. Applications are sought for the positions of director, resource persons and laureates. The director will be a senior scholar known for his or her expertise and originality of thinking on the topic. Resource persons will be senior or mid-career scholars who have published extensively on the topic and can make a significant contribution to debates. Laureates will be African researchers who have completed their university or professional training and have a proven capacity to carry out research on the institute theme. Intellectuals active in the policy process or in social movements or civic organisations are also encouraged to apply. A total of 15 researchers from across Africa and the diaspora will be selected to participate. Non-African scholars who are able to raise funds for their participation may also apply.

ENTORSHIP GRANT AWARDS Society for Pediatric Dermatology

Description:

The Society for Pediatric Dermatology invites applications for its mentorship grant awards. These support formal mentorship projects between dermatology trainees and SPD mentors. Projects should focus on particular expertise that is not available at the trainee's institution and relate directly to the care of children with skin disease. Eligible projects include, but are not limited to:

- initiation of research collaborations:
- implementation of clinical-based technologies;
- development of multidisciplinary clinics.

It is expected that the programme will promote the trainee's career development within the field of paediatric dermatology, relationships between and cultivate established paediatric dermatologists and residents, fellows or junior faculty who have chose to pursue a career in the field.

Applicants must be members of the society. Additionally, applicants must be enrolled in a ACGME-approved dermatology training programme or ABD-approved paediatric dermatology fellowship; or be junior faculty members in dermatology who have completed an ACGME-approved residency training programme in dermatology within the past five years.

Awards are worth up to US$4,000 and cover travel expenses, accommodations and related costs while working for a specific mentor for a period of two to four weeks.

Applicants do not need to be members of the society and international applicants are welcome to apply. Any qualified applicant in any specialty will be considered and new investigators are encouraged to apply. NASS does not support research for independent manufacturers, industry development or personal financial gain.

The fellowship covers the costs of travel and housing, and typically ranges from US$3,000 to US$7,000.

HORT-TERM INVITATION FELLOWSHIP PROGRAMME FOR RESEARCH IN JAPAN Japan Society for the Promotion of Science

Description:

The Japan Society for the Promotion of Science invites applications for its short-term invitation fellowship programme for research in Japan. These allow researchers employed at Japanese research institutions to invite fellow researchers from other countries to Japan to participate in cooperative activities at their research institutions. All fields of the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences are eligible.

There are two types of fellowships:

- short-term approximately 100 invitation fellowships.
- two or three short-term S fellowships for Nobel laureates or recipients of similarly high-level international prizes who are in a leading position in their subject field.

For short-term invitation fellowships, invited researchers must be university professors, associate or assistant professors, research associates or of equivalent status. Other researchers may be eligible if they have held a doctoral degree for a period of more than six years. They must be citizens of a country that has diplomatic relations with Japan. Fellowships are awarded for a period of 14 to 60 days and will include round-trip air travel, a daily maintenance allowance of ¥18,000, domestic research travel allowance of ¥150,000, and overseas travel accident and sickness insurance coverage.

Short-term S fellowships for Nobel laureates or recipients of other similarly high-level international prizes are awarded for a period between seven and 30 days, and include air travel, an allowance of ¥42,00 per day, domestic research travel allowance of ¥150,000, and overseas travel accident and sickness insurance coverage.

The host will receive a cooperation allowance of ¥50,000.

Applications must be submitted to JSPS by a host scientist in Japan through the head of their university or institution or by an overseas nominating authority. Foreign scientists wishing to participate in this programme are advised to establish contact with a Japanese researcher in their field and to ask them to submit an application.

Closing date: 10 May 13

Deadline information: Applications are accepted between 3 September and 7 September 2012, and 2 May and 10 May 2013. Deadlines on: 7 September 2012, 10

May 2013.

■ UPPORT FOR SMALL ACADEMIC EXPENSES Royal Economic Society

Description:

The Royal Economic Society invites applications for its support for small academic expenses scheme. This scheme supports members who require small sums for unexpected expenditures, such as travel expenses in connection with independent research work; the purchase of a piece of software; or expenses for a speaker at a conference being organised by the applicant's university or institute. Preference will be given to initiatives that are for the benefit of new entrants to the profession, or cannot ordinarily be funded from other sources, such as existing research grants.

Grants of up to £600 each are available under this scheme.

Closing date: 31 May 13

ONFERENCE AND WORKSHOP GRANTS

Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research

Description:

The Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research invites applications under its conferences and workshops grant program. Funding of up to US$20,000 per award is available to fund the following events to foster the creation of an international community of research scholars and advance significant and innovative anthropological research:

- conferences, defined as public events that are comprised primarily of oral and poster presentations to a larger audience of anthropologists. Priority is given to major conferences sponsored by large international anthropological organisations that serve as their annual or periodic meetings. The majority of the funds granted to such conferences are expected to be used towards expenses for international scholars who are making presentations at conference and would not otherwise be able to attend;
- workshops, are defined as working meetings which focus on developing and debating topical issues in theoretical anthropology. Workshops involve a small group of scholars who meet for a sufficient period of time to deal intensively with the topic. Priority is given to those workshops that devote the majority of time to discussion and debate rather than to the presentation of papers. It is expected that workshops will result in a publication.

Applications must be made by a professional anthropologist who is the primary organiser of the proposed conference or workshop.

Description:

The Arts and Humanities Research Council's Research Centre for Musical Performance as Creative Practice invites applications for its visiting fellowships. Fellowships enable musicologists, musicians and those working in cognate fields in the UK and overseas to spend up to three months undertaking collaborative research at one of the centre's partner institutions. Partner institutions are the University of Cambridge, King's College London, the University of Oxford and Royal Holloway, University of London. Fellows will have the opportunity to gain exposure to the centre's research activities, to share their work with centre staff and students and to contribute to the activities supported by the performance studies network. centre's Research must address one or more of the following topics:

- how musical performance is creative, and what knowledge is creatively embodied in musical performance?
- how music in performance and the very act of performance - takes shape over time?
- how understanding musical performance as a creative practice varies across different global contexts, idioms and performance conditions.

In phase one of this programme, priority may be given to applicants who wish to be based at King's College London in association with the centre's 'shaping music in performance' applicants should project. All completed a doctorate prior to application or have equivalent professorial experience. Eligible maintenance expenses incurred during the period of the fellowship will be reimbursed, up to a maximum of £1,500 per month. Relevant travel costs to or within the UK may also be reimbursed.
