RVINGTON INSTITUTE FELLOWSHIPS

Cancer Research Institute

Description:

The Cancer Research Institute invites applications for the Irvington Institute fellowships. These support qualified young scientists at leading universities or research centres around the world to receive training in cancer immunology. Applicants must be working in areas directly related to cancer immunology and must conduct their proposed research under a sponsor who holds a formal appointment at the host institution, which must be a non-profit institution anywhere in the world.

Each applicant must hold a doctoral degree and have less than five years of postdoctoral experience, with the exception of MD applicants, who should not include years of residency in this calculation. Only one fellow per sponsor may apply per application round.

These three-year fellowships provide stipends of US$50,000 for the first year, US$53,000 for the second, and US$57,000 for the third. An additional allowance of US$1,500 per year is allotted to the host institution to help pay for the fellow's research supplies, travel to scientific meetings or health insurance.

Closing date: 01 Apr 13

Deadline information: Applications due by 1 April and 1 October annually. When these dates fall on a weekend applications are due the following Monday. Deadlines on: 1 April 2013, 1 October 2013, and repeated annually.

The Medical Research Council invites applications for its senior clinical fellowship. This aims to develop outstanding medically and other clinically qualified professionals to become research leaders. There are two types of fellowship:

- the MRC senior clinical fellowship, which provides the salary of the senior clinical fellow who will be an employee of the host institution.
- MRC/MND Association Lady Edith Wolfson fellowship which enables clinicians to pursue research into the pathogenesis and treatment of motor neurone disease.

Each of the awards provide the opportunity to spend time in an overseas research centre, UK industry, or a second research centre, for a period of up to one year to receive training that cannot be achieved as effectively within the academic host institution.

Clinical applicants should hold a PhD/DPhil or MD and will have at least three years' relevant postdoctoral research experience. The scheme is open to hospital doctors, general practitioners, dentists, nurses, midwives and members of the allied health professions. There are no residence eligibility restrictions.

Funding may cover research support staff, research consumables expenses and capital equipment appropriate for the research project, an annual travel allowance, and other appropriate items under full economic cost. Support is provided for five years.

PPORTUNITIES TO WORK IN THE NEW RESEARCH COMPLEX AT HARWELL -SENIOR CLINICAL FELLOWSHIPS Medical Research Council

Description:

The Medical Research Council invites proposals for senior fellowships in support of scientists wishing to work in the new research complex at Harwell. Applications are sought from researchers wishing to occupy laboratory space in RCaH and utilise its facilities. MRC has space allocated in the RCaH building for 15 to 20 additional researchers including short term visitors and long term research teams. Preference will be given to researchers using Diamond or other facilities at the site. It is envisaged that researchers working in RCaH, whether on a short- or long-term basis, will be employed by a university or research institute who will administer their award. Researchers will then be seconded to the RCaH for the duration of their work there.

Senior fellowships are suitable for researchers who have already proven their independence. The applicant must have a host institution through which the award will be administered. MRC will usually provide 80 per cent of FEC to the institution.

ADIATION SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY AWARD American Nuclear Society

Description:

The American Nuclear Society invites applications for its radiation science and technology award. This award recognises outstanding creative applications of radiation sciences and engineering principles. Qualification is based on meritorious scientific and engineering achievement that has important implications for radiation science and technology. The work may have been performed at any time in the past, but the findings must have been reported in peerreviewed scientific journals. Also feasibility of industrial application must have been established although the work need not be in widespread use at the time of the award.

Any member of the ANS can nominate a candidate, who does not have to be an ANS member. The recipient will receive an engraved plague and a US$2,000 monetary award.

International Commission for Optics

Description:

The International Commission for Optics invites nominations for its ICO prize. The prize will be given each year to an individual who has made a noteworthy contribution to optics, published submitted for or publication before he or she has reached the age of 40. Specifically, the prize winner must not have reached the age of 40 before 31 December of the year for which the prize is awarded. The character of the work of successive prize recipients should preferably alternate between predominantly technological experimental or predominantly theoretical. The noteworthy contribution in optics is measured chiefly by its impact on the field of optics generally, opening a subfield or significantly expanding an established subfield in research or technology. The prize is preferably given to an individual, but it can be shared by two people. The prize includes a citation and a cash award, which in 2011 was worth $2,000 plus $1,000 for travel expenses.

URT WEILL PRIZE Kurt Weill Foundation for Music

Description:

The Kurt Weill Foundation for Music invites applications for the Kurt Weill prize. The purpose of the prize is to encourage distinguished scholarship in the disciplines of music, theater, dance, literary criticism and history addressing 20th century music theater including opera. Media may include not only print, but also audio-recording, videorecording, multimedia projects, and on-line publications, provided there is a tangible scholarly component. Works must have been published in the 2009 and 2010 calendar years. Edited multi-author collections of essays are not eligible in the book category, although single essays from such collections may be nominated in the article category. Works addressing the American music theater are particularly encouraged.

Authors of nominated entries need not be members of the sponsoring organizations, nor are there citizenship or language restrictions. Nominations are solicited from individuals, publishers, scholarly societies, and institutions, but self-nominations are encouraged as well. There will be two awards: the author of the winning book entry will receive a cash award of $5,000; and the author of the winning article entry will receive $2,000.

RA AND HARRIET REISS THEORY AWARD Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality

Description:

The Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality invites nominations for the Ira and Harriet Reiss theory award. The purpose of the award is to support theoretical advances in social science theories concerning human sexuality. The award is made to the author(s) of the best social science article, chapter, or book published in the previous year in which theoretical explanations of human sexual attitudes and behaviors are developed. In addition to careful theoretical development, stress will be placed on the use of relevant empirical evidence to examine the validity of the theoretical explanations. The publication must have appeared in 2010 or be in a journal volume dated as 2010.

The award consists of $500 and a plaque. The author(s) will be expected to present a plenary address based on the winning publication at the November annual meeting of the Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality the next year. To defray expenses associated with the presentation, additional $500 will be made available.

HORT-TERM INVITATION FELLOWSHIP PROGRAMME FOR RESEARCH IN JAPAN Japan Society for the Promotion of Science

Description:

The Japan Society for the Promotion of Science invites applications for its short-term invitation fellowship programme for research in Japan. These allow researchers employed at Japanese research institutions to invite fellow researchers from other countries to Japan to participate in cooperative activities at their research institutions. All fields of the humanities, social sciences and natural sciences are eligible.

There are two types of fellowships:

- approximately 100 short-term invitation fellowships.
- two or three short-term S fellowships for Nobel laureates or recipients of similarly high-level other international prizes who are in a leading position in their subject field.

For short-term invitation fellowships, invited researchers must be university professors, associate or assistant professors, research associates or of equivalent status. Other researchers may be eligible if they have held a doctoral degree for a period of more than six years. They must be citizens of a country that has diplomatic relations with Japan.

Fellowships are awarded for a period of 14 to 60 days and will include round-trip air travel, a daily maintenance allowance of ¥18,000, domestic research travel allowance ¥150,000, and overseas travel accident and sickness insurance coverage.

Short-term S fellowships for Nobel laureates or recipients of other similarly high-level international prizes are awarded for a period between seven and 30 days, and include air travel, an allowance of ¥42,00 per day, domestic research travel allowance ¥150,000, and overseas travel accident and sickness insurance coverage.

The host will receive a cooperation allowance of ¥50,000.

Applications must be submitted to JSPS by a host scientist in Japan through the head of their university or institution or by an overseas nominating authority. Foreign scientists wishing to participate in this programme are advised to establish contact with a Japanese researcher in their field and to ask them to submit an application.

Closing date: 10 May 13

Deadline information: Applications are accepted between 3 September and 7 September 2012, and 2 May and 10 May 2013. Deadlines on: 7 September 2012, 10 May 2013.

NTERNATIONAL SENIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIP

Wellcome Trust

Description:

The Wellcome Trust invites applications for its international senior research fellowships in biomedical science. This scheme supports outstanding researchers, either medically qualified or science graduates, who wish to establish a research career in an academic institution in either Croatia, the Czech Republic, Estonia, Hungary, Poland, the Slovakian Republic or Slovenia.

Applicants should have between five and 10 years of research experience at a postdoctoral level or clinical equivalent and have a substantial record of publications in their chosen area of research in leading international iournals. Candidates expected to have spent a significant period of their postdoctoral research career working outside their chosen country. However, proposals can also be considered from those who have pursued successful careers entirely in-country. Applications are particularly encouraged from outstanding scientists working outside their own countries who wish to return home.

The fellowship is for five years, and provides salary, research programme costs support to attend scientific meetings.

ENIOR FELLOWSHIPS IN PUBLIC HEALTH AND TROPICAL MEDICINE Wellcome Trust

Description:

The Wellcome Trust invites applications for its senior fellowships in public health and tropical medicine. These support outstanding researchers from low- and middle-income countries to establish themselves as leading investigators at an academic institution in a low- or middle-income country location. Research projects must be in the area of public health or tropical medicine, aimed at understanding and controlling human and animal diseases of local, national or global health importance. Applications are only accepted in the public health and tropical medicine remit, including infectious and noncommunicable diseases.

Applicants must be nationals or legal residents of a low- or middle-income country and should be graduates in a subject relevant to public health or tropical medicine with a PhD and at least five years' postdoctoral experience, or medical graduates with a higher qualification equivalent membership of the UK Royal Colleges of Physicians, or be recognised as a specialist within a relevant research area, and have at least five years' research experience.

The fellowship is tenable for up to five years and includes a salary, research expenses, training costs, a funding allowance and travel to meetings. Research-dedicated costs may not exceed £100,000 per year.

▼ ENIOR NON-CLINICAL FELLOWSHIP Medical Research Council

Description:

The Medical Research Council invites applications for its senior non-clinical fellowship. This is an award for non-clinical researchers of exceptional ability. Applicants are expected to be proven independent researchers with an excellent track record in their scientific field, and demonstrate promise as future research leaders.

Applicants will normally hold a PhD or DPhil and have at least six years of postdoctoral research experience. There are no residence eligibility restrictions for this fellowship.

The award covers salary, research support staff, research consumables expenses and capital equipment, travel costs, and other appropriate items under full economic costs for up to seven years at a UK research organisation. The fellowship also provides the opportunity to spend time in an overseas research centre, a second UK research centre or a UK industrial centre to provide a concentrated period of training that cannot be achieved as effectively within the academic host institution.

Closing date: 21 May 13

Deadline information: Applications due at 4pm. Deadlines on: 10 October 2012, 21 May 2013.

ARTHA T MUSE PRIZE FOR SCIENCE AND POLICY IN ANTARCTICA Tinker Foundation

Description:

The Tinker Foundation and the Scientific Committee on Antarctic Research of the International Council for Science invites nominations for the Martha T Muse prize for science and policy in Antarctica. This is awarded to an individual who has demonstrated excellence in Antarctic science or policy, and who shows clear potential for sustained major and significant contributions that will enhance the understanding of Antarctica. Activities include:

- studying the agreements, instruments, and conventions among that foster international nations cooperation, promote shared governance, and protect environment of Antarctica;
- advancing cross-disciplinary efforts to better understand the environment of Antarctica;
- conducting investigations that advance our understanding of Antarctic systems and living resources as key components of the earth's system;

- studying the unique characteristics adaptations of Antarctic organisms;
- defining the role of humans in change in the Antarctic environment and improving our ability to predict future outcomes, promote environmental stewardship, inform management of the region;
- studying the critical linkages between Antarctica and the planet as a whole;
- addressing one or more of the themes embodied in IPY 2007-2008;
- contributing to public understanding and appreciation of Antarctica, its value, and its role in our lives.

The Society for Endocrinology invites applications for its early career grants. These may be awarded to young members of the society within no more than ten years of receiving their postgraduate degree. Grants may be awarded, for example, for the following purposes:

- as resources to gain preliminary data before applying for other external funding;
- for a specific piece of equipment;
- as resources to finalise a project;
- as short term salary funding.

grant incorporates the Marjorie Robinson endowment grant for research into diseases of the adrenal or pituitary glands.

Full, associate and nurse members may apply if they hold a minimum of one year's membership; scientists and clinicians in training may apply if they hold a minimum of six months' membership. Applications submitted by a recognised higher education research institute or medical institution will be considered.

Funds must be used within one year. The maximum value of this grant is £10,000.

American Society of Mechanical Engineers invites nominations for its gas turbine award. This award is given in recognition of an outstanding individual, or multiple, author contribution to the literature of combustion gas turbines or gas turbines thermally combined with nuclear or steam power plants.

The paper may be devoted to design aspects or overall gas turbines or individual components, and systems such compressors, combustion systems, turbines, controls and accessories, bearings, regenerators, inlet air filters, silencers or similar. It may cover topics specifically related to gas turbines such as hightemperature materials or fuel considerations, including erosion and corrosion complications. It can also be devoted to application or operational aspects of gas turbines for aircraft propulsion and ground power units, or automotive, electric utility, gas pipeline pumping, locomotive, marine, oil field pumping, petrochemical, space power, steel and similar uses. Papers published anywhere in the world are eligible.

The award includes US$1,000.

ISITING FELLOWSHIPS Arts and Humanities Research Council

Description:

The Arts and Humanities Research Council's Research Centre for Musical Performance as Creative Practice invites applications for its visiting fellowships. Fellowships enable musicologists, musicians and those working in cognate fields in the UK and overseas to spend up to three months undertaking collaborative research at one of the centre's partner institutions. Partner institutions are the University of Cambridge, King's College London, the University of Oxford and Royal Holloway, University of London. Fellows will have the opportunity to gain exposure to the centre's research activities, to share their work with centre staff and students and to contribute to the activities supported by the performance studies network. Research must address one or more of the following topics:

- how musical performance is creative, and what knowledge is creatively embodied in musical performance?
- how music in performance and the very act of performance - takes shape over time?
- how understanding musical performance as a creative practice varies across different global contexts, idioms and performance conditions.

In phase one of this programme, priority may be given to applicants who wish to be based at King's College London in association with the centre's 'shaping music in performance' All applicants should project. completed a doctorate prior to application or have equivalent professorial experience. Eligible maintenance expenses incurred during the period of the fellowship will be reimbursed, up to a maximum of £1,500 per month. Relevant travel costs to or within the UK may also be reimbursed.

ICIPE - African Insect Science for Food and Health

Description:

ICIPE - African Insect Science for Food and Health, invites application for its fellowships under the African regional postgraduate programme in insect science. The ARPPIS programme offers three-vear doctoral research fellowships, aimed at preparing young scholars from Africa for regional leadership roles, as well as internationally competitive research careers, in arthropodrelated sciences. The successful candidates will conduct research in one of the following subject areas:

- development of efficient monitoring tools to improve surveillance of vectors of dengue and Chikungunya fever;
- bridging between ecosystem and public health with respect to malaria;
- dynamics of Bunyamwera virus circulation and transmission in North Eastern Province, Kenya;

- population genetics of arbovirus vectors in splintered aquatic habitats around Lake Victoria in Suba District, Kenya;
- ecology of arboviral pathogens in mosquitoes and their vertebrate hosts on the shores and adjacent islands of Lake Victoria in Suba District and Lake Baringo of Kenya;
- estimating impacts of climate change induced variations in stem borer functional resource utilisation and crop damages;
- development and implementation of pre- and post-harvest management measures for Bactrocerainvadens and Ceratitiscosyra on mango in Kenya;
- fungal entomopathogens for aphid management: variability pathogenicity, species attributes and interactions with other natural enemies;

- dynamics of Napier stunt pytoplasma between the cultivated and wild graminae in Western Kenya;
- developing ceralstemborer management strategies understanding and exploiting early herbivory and plant-to-plant communication in cultivated and non-cultivated graminae in Eastern Africa;
- understanding the effects of drought and temperature on production of stress related volatile organic compounds and their impacts on pest management in cereals.

Applicants should be nationals of an African country, a maximum of 36 years of age, hold BSc and MSc degrees and be eligible for registration in one of the ARPPIS member universities.

ESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS Macquarie University

Description:

Macquarie University invites expressions of interest for its research fellowships. Seven full-time research fellowship positions will be available commencing in 2013. The objectives of the fellowship are:

- to provide support to researchers within three years of the award of their PhD who have an outstanding track record or who show evidence of excellent research potential;
- to provide support to an Australian indigenous researcher beginning of his or her research career, or who is seeking to reestablish his or her research career following a career interruption;
- to provide an incubation research period for early career researchers, allowing them to increase their competitive edge in securing research funding from non-university sources;
- to enhance the research capabilities of existing and emerging areas of research concentration and excellence within Macquarie University.

Applications from national and international researchers who are not already working at Macquarie University are particularly encouraged. Applicants are eligible only if their PhD was awarded on or after 1 March 2009, or will be submitted by 29 August 2012.

The Fellowship cannot be commenced until the PhD has been awarded, which must be by 30 June 2013. The salary range will be within points six and eight of level A of the academic salary scale, plus annual leave and 17 per cent employer superannuation. Each applicant may also apply for up to $50,000 over three years to assist with research costs, up to a maximum of $20,000 in any one year.

FRICA THESIS AWARD African Studies Centre

Description:

The African Studies Centre invites nominations for its Africa thesis award. The award aims to encourage research and writing on Sub-Saharan Africa and to promote the study of African cultures and societies.

Any master's thesis thematically related to socio-geographical, economic, political, juridical or anthropological issues or focusing on the humanities such as history, religion and literature (but with the exception of language and semiotic studies) may be submitted. The geographical focus of the research should be on Sub-Saharan Africa or its migrant communities elsewhere in the world. The thesis must be socially relevant.

Any final-year student who has completed a master's thesis with distinction (80 per cent or higher or a Dutch rating of at least 8) at a university in Africa or the Netherlands may apply. The thesis must have been examined within one year prior to the deadline for submitting manuscripts. The ASC specifically encourages students from Sub-Saharan Africa to submit their theses for this annual competition.

The award consists of a prize of €1,000 for the winning thesis, which will be published in the ASC African studies collection. The thesis may be submitted if it is written in English, French or Dutch. If the thesis is in Dutch, a five-page English or French summary must also be attached.

The James S McDonnell Foundation invites applications for its postdoctoral fellowships awards in studying complex systems under its 21st century science program. These fellowships are intended to provide students in the final stages of completing a PhD more flexibility in identifying and securing postdoctoral training opportunities complex systems research. The complex systems program supports scholarship and research directed toward the development of theoretical and mathematical tools that can be applied to the study of complex, adaptive, nonlinear systems. It is anticipated that research funded in this program will address issues in fields such as biology, biodiversity, climate, demography, epidemiology, technological change, economic development, governance, or computation.

The program will provide selected students with funding the student can use to negotiate potential postdoctoral with training institutions while the student is in the final phase of degree studies. This training will provide the student with an opportunity to broaden their research experience and acquire additional skills prior to pursuing a career in academia or elsewhere.

Applicants must be PhD students within 18 months of the degree completion, but must be prior to a student's identification of the institution or laboratory where training is to be pursued. JSMF funds internationally.

Awards are worth up to $200,000 over a two year period.

TELLOWSHIP PROGRAMME
International Society of Nephrology

Description:

Posted date: 06 Jul 11

The International Society of Nephrology invites applications for its global outreach fellowship programme. This programme provides nephrological training to physicians from emerging countries. Fellows receive training in advanced host institutions, allowing them to acquire knowledge in basic and clinical nephrology, dialysis, and epidemiology. transplantation, training focuses on providing the exact skills and knowledge specifically required by the home institution; the guiding principle of the programme is that fellows are required to return to their home countries after their training to convey knowledge and experience that they acquired during their fellowship.

Two types of fellowships are offered; longterm awards lasting seven to 12 months and short-term awards lasting two to six months.

Eligible to apply are individuals at least 30 years of age who are living and working in developing countries and who have have received basic training in nephrology. Applicants must be able to guarantee a return to their home countries within three months of completing the training. Candidates are encouraged to seek out relationships of their own accord and to benefit from relationships that their institution may already have with other well-established renal centres.

Description:

The Academy of Sciences for the Developing World and the International Centre for Chemical and Biological Sciences invite TWAS-ICCBS applications to the postgraduate fellowship programme. These fellowships enable young scientists from developing countries other than Pakistan to pursue research leading to a PhD in the chemical and biological sciences. Fellowships are tenable at the ICCBS, which comprises the HEJ Research Institute of Chemistry and the Dr PanjwaniCenter for Molecular and Drug Research, and support studies in the following fields:

- organic chemistry;
- biochemistry;
- biotechnology; •
- molecular medicine;
- pharmacology;
- physical chemistry.

Sandwich fellowships, for those registered for a PhD in their home country, are tenable for a minimum of six months. Full-time fellowships, for those willing to register for a PhD in Pakistan, are tenable for a maximum of four years. Developing-country nationals (other than Pakistan) who are no more than 35 years of age on 31 December of the year of application may apply. Applicants must not hold a visa for temporary or permanent residency in Pakistan or any developed country. Applicants should hold a master's degree in a field of the natural sciences and provide evidence of proficiency in English. Fellowships include one return journey to Pakistan and a monthly stipend to cover living costs, such as accommodation, subsistence and health insurance.

AX BENTELE AWARD FOR ENGINE TECHNOLOGY INNOVATION

Society of Automotive Engineers

Description:

The Society of Automotive Engineers invites nominations for the Max Bentele award for technology innovation. This award annually recognizes an SAE member whose work has furthered innovation in the manufacture, design and improvement of technology for ground, air or space vehicles. The award is designated for engineers under the age of 35 who have made a major contribution through a new idea, concept, innovation or application which provides a recognized improvement in engine technology and which has been verified through proof of concept demonstrations.

The award includes a medal and a $2,000 honorarium, which is presented at the awards ceremony during the SAE world congress.
